

Confrontation: Facing the Truth About God, Self and Others

Part of the "Groups That Grow" Small Group Leadership Training Series

Bill Donahue

VIA SATELLITE

There's a problem in your group, but nobody is talking.

Take feedback to the next level and discover the art of confrontation!

Many seek to avoid confrontation all together, but those who are wise understand its power to transform relationships.

This month, small group leaders gain the mindset and skills needed to deal openly and directly with problems in their groups.

According to expert Bill Donahue, confrontation accomplishes two things: "It solves problems and creates closeness and attachment among group members."

In this practical broadcast, small group leaders and pastors will discover how confrontation can:

- Promote changes in behavior.
- Bring healing to relationships.
- Promote spiritual, relational and emotional growth.
- Act as a mirror for truth.

Find out how a little confrontation can be good for the health of your groups!

Who Should Attend:

- Senior Pastors
- Small Group Pastors
- Discipleship Pastors
- Small Group Leaders

Bill Donahue is the executive director of Small Group Ministries for the Willow Creek Association and author of Leading Life-Changing Small Groups, and with Russ Robinson, the coauthor of The 7 Deadly Sins of Small Group Ministry and more.
